Summary:

The environment and its current state are of interest of many people who are afraid to see the future. Teaching kids about it in schools is the basis of managing the destiny of the planet.

Description:

The project about the environment educates through subjects like music, work or literacy.

The project also fulfils the social role. All schools involved in the project cooperate with their municipality or city councils, so not only mayors but also deputies or other community organizations participated in the accomplished tasks of their school project.

Schools also collaborate with general public institutions. Planned events promoted waste removal, flowers and grass care in the park, or watering. The interest of other organizations results in action to care for greenery and nature in towns and cities.

This project also proves that cooperation between schools and the management of towns and cities must exist, they live side by side and should work together.
